Let us tell you Grace Killelea's story

Confidence is the key to success. And Grace Killelea, one of the most popular and sought-after keynote speakers, knows a thing or two about confidence. Her book, "The Confidence Effect: Every Woman's Guide to the Attitude that Attracts Success," is meant to inspire women to be leaders in the workplace and in life.

Killelea's resume could make anyone in corporate America feel intimidated. It includes leadership positions at Comcast Cable Corporation, Lifetime Television, Prime Communications, and SBC Communications. At every point in her career, Killelea made a lasting impact on her teams and inspired them to reach their goals.

After retiring as Senior Vice President of Talent from Comcast in 2012, she began sharing her experience and expertise with others as a regular keynote speaker. Now, she's among the premier leadership speakers in the circuit, and she can draw on a wealth of knowledge based on her own career.

Killelea's expertise focuses on 4 core areas:

- Executive Coaching, especially in areas of crisis management, corporate change, and team growth.
- Public Speaking on topics such as leadership, development, and branding.
- Consulting, particularly in human resource management and within the Birkman Method® assessment framework. Professional development, team building, and organizational wins are her specialty.
- Women's Leadership, building on her own experience to help her audiences break through barriers.

Before she moved on from Comcast, her signature accomplishment was overseeing a talent management process that has resulted in the training of over 3,000 directors every year. She was also a major figure behind the company's Diversity and Inclusion efforts. Her experience and success have made her busy, and she's constantly traveling the country to help companies across industries.

Grace Killelea knows confidence. She's had a successful career and she knows what she brings to the table. She empowers audiences to speak up and not hold themselves back. Motivating and insightful, Grace Killelea will inspire your team to be the best leaders they can be.
